

COLONIAL CONTINUITIES & MIGRATION

PANEL DISCUSSION: "EXPLOITATION, FORCED DISPLACEMENT AND RESISTANCE"

Program, 06.06.24

19:00–19:15: Welcome and introduction

19:15–20:15: Moderated panel discussion on each speaker's spaces and forms of resistant action, core themes and questions they would like to address to social justice-oriented movements in the Global North

20:15–20:45: Fishbowl debate

20:45–21:00: Closing remarks

This event will provide space for convivial voices of stakeholders against colonial continuities to critically question current debates on development and migration. It is a dialogue between speakers from countries affected by numerous political and ecological crises and a Eurocentric understanding of development and forced migration (the Global South) and those countries that are spared or benefit from them (the Global North). They are part of academic debates, social movements and transformative practices in the field of resistant and resilient social and educational work that aim to disengage from the continuities of colonialism and the historical legacies associated with various assumptions about development and contemporary refugee movements. Together we aim to overcome the dominant Western narratives about development, migration and humanitarianism by applying postcolonial and decolonial critiques.
